

Self-compassion assessment

What do you normally criticize yourself for?

What kinds of words or phrases do you use on yourself?

How does your criticism make you feel?

Do you suffer any ramifications from these self-statements?

If you were to truly accept yourself as you are, how do you think you would feel?